Forecast for Sunday 28 Feb 2021

Weather: Some clear spells overnight but a few patches of mist and fog will also form in some places. Any mist and fog will burn off with the morning sunshine and it will be a dry and sunny day. Some scattered cloud is expected at times but generally long sunny intervals.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 95%, a few patches of cloud around the hill tops at the start of the day but these will lift and clear.

Visibility: Initially visibility maybe moderate or poor in mist and fog patches but these shouldn't be extensive and will disperse reasonably quickly, patches of cloud are likely from 500m and above. Visibility will be very good or excellent for most of the rest of the day with far reaching views likely.
